said. "Our studies have shown Government costs can be reduced and we intend to reduce them."

Today's events in the House came when Ralph Roberts, retiring doorkeeper, rapped the gavel signaling the start of the potentially historic session. A prayer by the Rev. James Shera Montgomery was the first order of business.

At the same hour the Senate's unusually dramatic opening with the fight over seating Senator Bilbo started off traditionally with Secretary Leslie L. Biffle banging the gavel and with a prayer said by Chaplain Frederick Brown Harris.

House Quorum Established.

To establish a quorum, a roll call of the House by States, was started immediately. As soon as this formality was concluded nominations for Speaker were made and the selection of Speaker Martin completed.

The House chamber presented a new aspect. On the Republican side the benches were filled completely and many lined the rail, evidence of the new Republican majority. On the Democratic side, there were a few vacant seats.

At the desks reserved for party leaders on the Republican side sat Mr. Martin and the newly elected Republican floor leader, Representative Haleck of Indiana. On the opposite side former Speaker Rayburn, who is now to be Democratic floor leader, was flanked by Representative Sabath of Illinois, dean of the House, and Representative Doughton of North Carolina, who during Democratic control was chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

Reece on Floor.

Carroll Reece of Tennessee, former Representative, now chairman of the Republican National Committee, sat on the Republican side and watched the proceedings with interest.

The Bilbo fight threatened to delay organization and possibly postpone President Truman's State of the Union message, scheduled for presentation Monday.

Officials in the House said that the delay could prevent the body from adopting the resolution for the joint session with the Senate at which the presidential message will be heard. Such a result would halt the legislative machinery, cold on the Senate side, the chamber traditionally does not even receive bills until it hears from the Chief Executive.

The White House announced that the President will deliver his message in person. Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said that the reading of the message would take about 30 minutes. The President's economic message will follow on Wednesday and the budget message two days later.

The House Republicans, having ironed out their difficulties over the office of majority leader—for the sake of party harmony and because Mr. Haleck was so far out in front in this contest he could not be overtaken—today were looking to Mr. Haleck for leadership. He was elected majority leader without opposition and by acclamation at a Republican caucus yesterday.

His three opponents, Representatives Brown and Jenkins of Ohio and Dirksen of Illinois, all withdrew and asked that their names be not presented.

Haleck's Smile Broad.

Mr. Haleck, emerged from the private meeting with a broad smile, saying the session had proven a remarkable demonstration of unity and harmony.

In accepting the nomination for speaker at the same meeting Mr. Martin emphasized the "great responsibility" facing the Republicans in the coming months.

The Republican House conference chose these other officers: John Andrews of Massachusetts, House clerk, at $12,000 a year, William F. Russell of Pennsylvania, sergeant at arms, $12,000, Frank Collier of Wisconsin, postmaster, $7,500, M. L. Meletio of Missouri, doorkeeper, $9,000.

A last-minute shift in plans casts Mr. Rayburn in the role of House minority leader. He had intended

Eisenhower Deplores Mention As Presidential Candidate

By the Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 3.—Gen. Eisenhower in an interview said today that the mention of his name as a presidential candidate "is not good for the great organization with which I am associated."

Gen. Eisenhower, the Army's Chief of Staff, made it plain that he was thinking as a soldier of the Nation's future security to prevent the United States from falling victim to some possible future "super-blast."

"From the beginning of the war, when my name has been mentioned in connection with a possible future political career for me, I have instantly refused to consider such a contingency," the general said during an interview at an inspection of the Army's Pratt General Hospital in suburban Coral Gables.

"I have not changed my mind," he said grimly.

"The Army is definitely non-partisan and national in character, and any talk that tends to cloud the soundness of that feature is not to the best interest of the United States," he added.

Asked about his possible retirement, the Chief of Staff said "I have a job to do and I'm going to do it as long as I am needed."

He looked forward to a future day when the United States might find itself alone against a hostile world, as England was after the fall of France.

"I am convinced that the world has got to find a way to settle differences peacefully," Gen. Eisenhower said. "Wars are emergencies. They come on unexpectedly. In the past we've had allies and factors which gave us ample time to prepare. This holds true today, but perhaps it will not in future years."

"In recognition of this we have one staff in Washington whose job it is to deal with scientists for the future superblast age. These men's only job is to contact these scientists and learn what may be ahead."

The general said he believed in the amalgamation of all military services, but that this effort "turned out to be a service fight and I don't believe in service fights." He said wars had to be fought with mutual friendship among the various services.

Gen. Eisenhower said he felt much better because of his stay at the hospital. He will leave January 11 for Washington.

De Gasperi in Paris En Route to America

By the Associated Press

PARIS, Jan. 3.—Italian Premier Alcide De Gasperi arrived here by plane from Rome today en route to the United States to seek American financial and economic aid for his country.

The Premier apparently was in good spirits in Rome as he embarked on his mission, during which he said, he would discuss with officials in Washington the possibility of an American loan to Italy and try to obtain some kind of "guarantee" of minimum food shipments to Italy following the end of the UNRRA.

A chilled crowd of several hundred Italians and Americans bade good-bye to the Premier in Rome as he stepped into a big AT transport plane piloted by Capt. J. L. Bogart of Baker, Ore.

Mr. De Gasperi—first head of a former enemy nation to visit the United States since the war—was accompanied by his 23-year-old daughter, Maria Romana; five Italian government officials and three newspapermen, including George Bria of the Associated Press Rome bureau.

Provisional President Enrico de Nicola and Foreign Minister Pietro Nenni—who will serve as Acting Premier during Mr. De Gasperi's absence—headed the Italian delegation at the Rome airport.

The American delegation included Charge d'Affaires David McK. Key, the military, naval and air attaches, and virtually the entire Embassy staff.

Also on hand were Rear Admiral Ellery W. Stone, chief Allied commander here; Maj. Gen. Lawrence C. Jones, Mediterranean theater chief of staff, and Col. E. M. Hampton, commanding the Campino Airport.

Three-Dimension Photos in Sight, Navy Declares

By the Associated Press

Photographs that look as real as the view out your window may be possible soon.

The Navy claimed today it has a "revolutionary" process of three-dimensional photography, but won't be ready to demonstrate it until sometime this summer.

Known as "tri-vision," the process consists principally of embossing tiny ridges on black and white or color film. It is the invention of Douglas F. Winner of Mount Vernon, N. Y., and has been under development for 14 years, the last 6 with the help of the Naval Photographic Service.

The main advantage of tri-vision is that it produces pictures "true to life in depth" without any special viewing glasses. Stereoscopic views with a special holder date back to Victorian parlor days.

John Andrews, a native of Salem, Mass., and veteran employee on Capitol Hill, was chosen at the caucus to be clerk of the House.—AP Photos.

184-Foot Petition Opposes Bilbo's D. C. Assignment

A petition 184 feet long containing signatures of 5,113 "voiceless people of Washington," which asked that Senator Bilbo, Democrat, of Mississippi not be reassigned to the District Committee, late yesterday was presented to retiring Senate Secretary Leslie L. Biffle.

Sponsored by representatives of the Washington Committee of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, the petition asked that the Senate assign to the District Committee "only Senators who believe in democracy, the Constitution and the equal rights of all our citizens."

Terming Senator Bilbo "a confessed member of the Ku Klux Klan," Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, chairman of the Washington committee, said: "Our only sin is that we cannot vote. Regardless of party lines, the United States Senate cannot ruthlessly disregard the will of the people of the District of Columbia."

Ten Germans Go To Trial For Stuttgart Bombing

By the Associated Press

STUTTGART, Germany, Jan. 3.—Nine grinning German youths and a confused man of 57 went on trial here today on charges of organizing a secret Nazi resistance movement in American-occupied Germany and conducting terror bombings in the Stuttgart area.

All were seized by Army investigators after the October bombing of three German denazification courts and a United States military police jail.

The man and the nine youths were formally accused of "creating, joining and engaging in an unauthorized secret organization dedicated to death, violence, destruction and persecution and intimidation of persons carrying out the occupation."

Meletio Wins Post As House Doorkeeper After G. O. P. Battle

House Republicans, with clock-like precision, yesterday re-elected the Speaker, majority leader and other key officials for the new Congress, only to encounter a determined fight over who should be doorkeeper.

After extended consideration in the closed-door party conference, victory in the race for the $9,000 patronage post went to M. L. Meletio of St. Louis.

He was nominated by Representative Short, the smiling and vocal Missouri Republican, and was backed unanimously by the Missouri Republican delegation.

House Employee 29 Years.

Mr. Meletio, a House employee for 29 years, has been House minority "nairs" clerk in recent sessions. Before that, he had served as an assistant sergeant at arms.

Partly by reason of sending campaign data to each Republican member of the House, he won in a scramble for the job that involved candidates from more than half a dozen States, one of them a former member of the House.

As doorkeeper, it will be his assignment to announce any visiting dignitaries to the House. Also he will have the privilege of interrupting House proceedings to bow and announce: "Mr. Speaker, a message from the President," or, more frequently, a message from the Senate.

Two $12,000 Jobs Decided.

In addition, he will supervise the squad of doorkeepers who guard the doors to the House chamber, have charge of House furniture, the House holding and document rooms, the pages and the House barbers.

Earlier, the Republican conference chose John Andrews of Massachusetts to be clerk to the House, a $12,000 job, and William F. Russell of Pennsylvania to be sergeant at arms, with a similar pay scale. Frank W. Collier was nominated to be House postmaster, a job he held under previous Republican Congresses.

Tugboat Crewmen Offer Arbitration Now or Strike

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—New York Harbor's tugboat men have voted to submit their wage dispute with operators to binding arbitration, but at the same time empowered their leaders to call a strike any time after midnight tonight if the offer is rejected.

Negotiators for operators of 350 harbor craft neither rejected nor accepted the offer, voted 995 to 814 by members of Local 333, AFL United Marine Division, International Longshoremen's Association.

F. M. Haller, head of the operators' committee, said after announcement of the vote yesterday that "we are trying to work out something with the union without arbitration."

The union position was taken in a mail ballot which offered union members the following two propositions:

1. Empower the negotiators to submit demands to binding arbitration with the understanding that a decision must be rendered in 15 days and if the operators refused their vote was to be construed as favoring a strike.
2. Empower the negotiators to call a strike.

Lumber Firm Head Found Dead in Staunton Home

By the Associated Press

STAUNTON, Va., Jan. 3.—Eugene H. Holsinger, 48, owner of the Holsinger Lumber Co. here, was found shot through the head at his home yesterday.

Dr. S. H. Garst, acting city coroner, said death resulted from a self-inflicted wound and said Mr. Holsinger had been dead about 12 hours.

E. B. Terry, of the Staunton police, said that when Mr. Holsinger was discovered by a maid in his home, he was clutching a .32-caliber automatic pistol in his right hand. Police were unable to advance a reason for the shooting.

Mr. Holsinger is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Holsinger; one brother and his widow. His father was formerly the commissioner of revenue here.
